

Chapter 2/Lesson 2 Notes

- The most important invention of the Sumerians was a system of writing known as Cuneiform.
- In Sumer, boys who went to school became a scribe, or an official writer.
- A city-state is a self-governing city that also governs nearby villages.
- A belief in many gods and goddesses is called polytheism.
- Most historians believed that religion was the center of Sumerian life.